From Japan, Hellas (275~315W, -30~60) was clearly visible. The northern part of Hellas was clear, and no significant white clouds were observed. Tiziano Olivetti recorded a dusty appearance of Deucalionis Regio (330W~10W, 15). This condition has continued throughout the season, and the color tone was recorded to be different from other areas. The NPC north of Tempe (50W~90W, +45) has returned to its original state after a rift.
